Why We Ride

Who is Pat Mac?

In Patrick McNamara's 13 years of life, he endured more than 15 brain surgeries, multiple rounds of chemotherapy and radiation treatments that made him lose his hair, a portion of his hearing and occasionally his energy, but never his winning spirit and love for family and friends. Patrick Thomas McNamara died at the age of 13, from a pediatric brain tumor disease known as ependymoma. Patrick was the child of Thomas and Deidre McNamara, the organizers of Pat Mac's Pack.

The Pat Mac Ride brings caring and committed people together each year to celebrate the life of Patrick McNamara through an annual 100K bike ride. The Pat Mac Ride raises funds for pediatric brain tumor research and to assist young brain tumor patients and their families.

Our History

The Pat Mac Ride originated in the spring of 2014 when a group of riders from St. Barnabas parish where Patrick McNamara attended grammar school chose to transform their annual ride into an opportunity to honor Patrick. With the blessing of Tom and Dee McNamara, Pat's Pedaling Pack was created. Today men and women continue to hit the road each year raising funds our important cause.

Pat Mac's Pack Mission Statement

Pat Mac's Pack is a 503(b) charitable foundation established in memory of Patrick Thomas McNamara, who died at the age of 13 after an eleven-year battle with recurrent brain tumors. The main purpose of Pat Mac's Pack is to raise funds for pediatric brain tumor research. These funds will be used to support various projects including drug research and development, and the advancement of novel surgical procedures used to treat pediatric brain tumors. The organization also provides funds to assist young brain tumor patients and their families. In addition, our foundation works to raise awareness about the devastation of this disease.

The funds generated through our annual 100K Bike Ride enables Pat Mac's Pack to support critical brain tumor research and provide assistance directly to the families of young children who are battling cancer.

Leaders Of The Pack

Each year riders recognize and celebrate the Leaders Of The Pack, children who face the challenges of pediatric brain tumors.
